A subtle, understated elegance defines the spirit Nayarit sets forth in this issue: a journey conceived to guide the traveller into its Pueblos Mágicos, where time-honoured traditions coexist with singular experiences—such as a visit to the Islas Marietas, shaped by the passage of time and historic episodes that today form a natural sanctuary of sculptural beauty.

The journey continues to the Chapel of San Francisco, known as "La Viejita." Its Virgin wears a feathered headdress in place of a crown, embracing a profound spiritual mestizaje. In San Pancho, art integrates seamlessly into everyday life; residents carry it within their creative DNA, transforming the village into a living aesthetic expression.

The Huichol people—more precisely, the Wixaritari—don't retreat from the world. They celebrate knowledge and translate it into works crafted from thousands of tiny glass beads. These pieces, highly prized by collectors, can be admired at Dómmima Gallery, recently inaugurated in Madrid and conceived as a cultural bridge between continents.

The itinerary also highlights the state's sporting projection. Nayarit is the birthplace of Gustavo Ayón, one of the great basketball players to have worn the jersey of Real Madrid. This is complemented by the experience of playing golf at Paradise Village, where Bengal tigers inhabit protected spaces dedicated to their preservation.

Nayarit invites you to settle into your favourite place, pair this reading with a coffee or a local wine, and simply enjoy the journey.

THE TWO FACES OF

LUXURY IN PUNTA MITA

The difference between one resort and another is rarely measured in metres or star ratings, but in the way each space engages in a dialogue with the traveller. In Punta Mita, just eighteen kilometres separate two radically different interpretations of contemporary luxury:

one unfolds as an intimate, organic, sensory retreat; the other as a sophisticated, social, multigenerational destination. Both share the same lineage of excellence, yet the rhythm, energy and experiences they offer respond to profoundly different desires.

Absolute privacy on the Pacific

Naviva offers a vision of luxury rooted in living nature, transformative silence and the absolute sovereignty of time. Conceived as an adults-only boutique retreat, it stretches across nearly twenty hectares of tropical forest overlooking the Pacific, with just fifteen freestanding bungalows that redefine the very notion of privacy. Here, luxury is fluid by nature. Days unfold without rigid schedules, fixed menus or predetermined agendas, following a personal rhythm attuned to each guest's mood and curiosity.
